

Ohio University

OHIO Open Library

---

Berita

---

2004

Berita Volume XXVIII, Number 3 (2004)

Ronald Provencher

Follow this and additional works at: <https://ohioopen.library.ohio.edu/berita>

Part of the Asian Studies Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Provencher, Ronald, "Berita Volume XXVIII, Number 3 (2004)" (2004). Berita. 10.
<https://ohioopen.library.ohio.edu/berita/10>

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by OHIO Open Library. It has been accepted for inclusion in Berita by an authorized administrator of OHIO Open Library. For more information, please contact debord@ohio.edu.

Table of Contents

Periodicals .....	1
Books .....	7
Amnesty International .....	9
Call for Papers/Conferences .....	10
Prospectus .....	10
Research & Production Staff .....	10

Periodicals (Relevant to M/S/B Studies)

Aseanie

N.12 -- decembre 2003 -- (1) Bernard Formoso, "Les adeptes de Ji Gong le 'bonze fou' en Malaise et a Singapour" [Based in part on ethnographic research concerning Ji Gong in Kuala Lumpur, Malacca, Negri Sembilan, Johor, Perak, Penang, Kedah and Perlis. ], pp.73-104.

Asian Affairs

V.xxxv, n.1 – Mar 2004 (1) Annabel Teh Gallop, Book review of Spirit of Wood. The Art of Malay Woodcarving: Works by master carvers from Kelantan, Terengganu and Pattani by Farish A. Noor & Eddin Khoo (David Lok photographer) [Book can be ordered from bookshop@soas.ac.uk ], pp. 104-105.

Asian Ethnicity

V.5,n.2/Jun 2004 -- (1) Valerie Goby, "If you look like me, I'll talk to you: a preliminary study of ethnic identity and inter-ethnic interaction among women in Singapore" [Preliminary views of how strongly women identify with their own ethnic group and how freely they are prepared to interact with persons from other ethnic groups in non-work-related situations -- one reason women chosen for this research was that females are more likely to wear clothes that give clues about their ethnic identity -- a related finding, intra-ethnic interaction was most spontaneous among women who displayed a strong national identity], pp. 235-244; (2) Helen Kopnina, "Cultural hybrids or ethnic fundamentalists? Discourses on ethnicity in Singaporean SMEs" [Examines national and ethnic discourses within Singaporean small and medium enterprises, and the ambiguities and dichotomies characterizing Singaporean national and ethnic identity -- Examines workplace discourses which address tensions and congruencies], pp. 245-257.

Asian Journal of Social Science

V.32,n.1 -- 2004 -- (1) Heidi Dahles, "Venturing across borders: investment strategies of Singapore-Chinese entrepreneurs in Mainland China" [Analyzes business strategies of Singapore-Chinese companies venturing into China since the 1980's -- Based on case-studies, have increased investments by these companies been due to shared cultural values, capitalist profit seeking, or the fact that governments have framed policies to support such investments? -- Paper argues it is due to the combination of these factors], pp.19-41; (2) Francis Khok Gee Lim, "Life goes on: living with HIV and AIDS in Singapore" [Increasingly, AIDS has become a major medical and social concern in Singapore, and has been much studied; but, a paucity of local research on the social interactions of HIV/AIDS patients -- This article focuses on such social interactions], pp. 42-65.

Asian Studies Review

V.28.1 -- Mar 2004 -- (1) Brenda S.A. Yeoh, Shilena Huang & Theresa W. Devashayam, "Diasporic subjects in the nation: foreign domestic workers, the reach of the law and civil society in Singapore" [Topical headings – Transnational social space and the reach of the law – Migrant women as domestic workers: increasing visibility on the agenda -- Foreign domestic workers, international conventions and local labor laws: the case of Singapore – 'Maid abuse' court cases, the penal code and the public discourse in Singapore -- 'Abused' maids in Singapore and reaching the safe haven of the law -- 'Maid abuse', gender ideologies and the limits of the law in Singapore], pp. 7-23..

Asian Survey

V.xliv, n.2 -- Mar/Apr 2004 -- (1) Etel Solingen, "Southeast Asia in a new era: domestic coalitions from crisis to recovery" [From the abstract -- Crisis of 1997-98 unleashed most severe challenge to SEA ruling coalitions in decades -- Examines domestic political consequences of crisis, focusing on continuity and change in fundamental coalitional forms -- internationalizing coalitions stayed the course, adapting to new political-institutional requirements imposed by salience of social dimensions of internationalization -- deals with region as a whole, but separate treatments of Malaysia, Indonesia & Thailand], pp. 189-212.

Asia-Pacific Journal of Education

V.24,n.2 -- 2004 -- (1) Koay Teng Leong, "Inclusive education in Brunei Darussalam" [Describes major developments in Brunei during the past decade that highlight inclusive education as a significant educational agenda], pp. 129-142; (2) Levan Lim & Marilyn Mayling Quah, "Foresight via hindsight: prospects and lessons for inclusion in Singapore" [Critical appraisal of prospects for inclusion of students with disabilities within the mainstream school system in Singapore], pp. 193-204.

Contemporary Southeast Asia

V.26,n.1 -- Apr 2004 -- (1) Harry Singh, "Malaysia's national security: rhetoric and substance" [The themes of rhetoric & substance, examined in the Malaysian context, highlight the external and internal dimensions of national security, the substantive aspects being more pronounced in the former, and rhetoric being more salient in the latter -- In the post-Cold War period, strategic and economic imperatives have tended to blur distinctions between the internal and external realms of the state, resulting in domestic politics becoming more susceptible to the dominant values of the international system], pp. 1-25.

Critical Asian Studies

V.36,n.2 -- Jun 2004 -- (1) Chitra Sankaran & Chng Huang Hoon, "'We women aren't free to die': transacting asian sexualities in a feminism classroom in Singapore" [From the abstract -- Using feminist pedagogy and postcolonial theory, the authors focus on the (re)presentation of Asian sexualities in an Asian classroom through a feminist reading of the short prose fiction "Bandong" by Suchen Christine Lim, challenging the ways in which the trope of subjugated Asian woman and man works in predictable ways to disempower them], pp. 285-301.

Ethnos

69:1 -- 2004 (1) Alexandra Kent, "Divinity, miracles and charity in the Sathya Sai Baba Movement of Malaysia" [From the abstract -- Examines how a Hindu revitalization movement addresses modernization in Malaysia -- Modernization entails material development & nation-building but weakens the authority of religious institutions -- Sathya Sai Baba is mostly urban-based, attracting Indians in business, science & other professions -- This article elaborates theoretical debate on 'the gift' (Marcel Mauss) and explores 'contractual' & 'sacrificial' religious giving in a way that reconciles spirituality with modernity], pp. 43-62.

Far Eastern Economic Review

Mar/25/04 (This issue previously unavailable in the library) -- (1) Raja Zaharaton binti Raja Zainal Abidin, "Letters: privatization review" [Regarding FEER's March 11 report that the new Malaysian government has authorized a sweeping assessment of privatization policies of former PM Mahathir's administration; The study was in fact proposed and initiated by former PM Mahathir], p. 4; (2) "Intelligence: Malaysia urged to boost controls" [U.S. officials pleased with their late February talks in Malaysia on nonproliferation issues, but say K.L. needs to do more to strengthen export controls], p.11; (3) Michael Vatikiotis, "Malaysia: Daim's expanding empire" [Daim Zainuddin played a key role in creating a Malay entrepreneurial class during former PM Mahathir Mohamad's heyday of high growth; Now, in a more sedate political climate, Daim is focusing his energies on building a private global-banking empire], pp. 42-43 (4) Nury Vittachi, "Travellers' tales: friends in high places" [God has been banned from elections in Malaysia -- Neither he nor his agents are allowed to demand votes in exchange for guaranteed reservations at upmarket establishments in the afterlife -- Elections chief Abdul Rashid Abdul told religious electioneers that such offers would be 'disadvantageous to the other candidates.' God was not available for comment], p. 46.

Apr/22/04 -- (1) "Regional briefing: Singaporean growth may lead to new PM" [PM Goh Chok Tong's promise in November to hand power over to his deputy, Lee Hsien Loong, if economy grew 3%+ in first quarter of 2004... it grew 7.3% -- Also, Singapore to let its currency appreciate against the US dollar, which may force Malaysia to change or abandon its peg on the US dollar], p.10; (2) Leslie Lopez & Shawn W. Crispin, "Fighting Back: Thailand & Malaysia agree to cooperate to end the violence in southern Thailand" [Emergency summit concluded April 12 btwn PMs Thaksin Shinawatra & Abdullah Ahmad Badawi -- Both agreed that the blame game solves nothing (Muslim separatists v. impoverishment and brutal police/military)], p. 16; (3) Barry Wain, "Strait Talk: A U.S. admiral's remarks could hinder moves against piracy and terrorism in Southeast Asia" [Head of U.S. Pacific Cmmd, Adm. Thomas Fargo testifying to a U.S. congressional committee gave details of U.S. military plans to bolster defense against terrorism in the Strait of Malacca unknown to Malaysia and Indonesia -- Both governments ruled-out use of US forces to police the strait], p.17; (4) S. Jayasankaran, "Malaysia's family pewter" [Review of a book about the famous Malaysian-Chinese Yong family, Born and Bred in Pewter Dust: The Royal Selangor Story by Chen May Yee, Archipelago Press], p. 55.

Apr/29/04 -- (1) "Regional Briefing: Malaysia" [PM Abdullah Ahmad Badawi clarified the role of ex-PM Mahathir as an adviser to car maker Proton Holdings, saying Mahathir would not interfere in the company's affairs], p.11; (2) S. Jayasankaran, "Malaysia: Asia's Rising Star" [After 6 years of underperforming its peers, the Kuala Lumpur Stock Exchange is attracting investor attention thanks to an improved economy], pp. 48-49; (3) Phil Rees, "Books: Southeast Asia -- Terror-Struck" [Review of Maria Ressa's recent book, Seeds of Terror,

"A readable book on terrorism in Southeast Asia...marred by hype and a failure to answer relevant questions...], pp. 62-63; (4) Nury Vittachi, "Travellers' Tales: Getting there is half the fun" [Teenage Malaysian school kids fake a teacher-guided weekend trip, complete with fake notification to parents, to the Cameron Highlands... but father of one of the girls was suspicious and broke-up the party in transit], p. 64.

May/06/04 -- (1) Dan Fineman, "Singapore: fiscal predator" [Huge hidden fiscal surpluses enrich the Singapore state but impoverish the private sector], p. 46.

May/13/04 -- (1) "Editorials: Thailand's crackdown" [The government's tough approach only draws attention to its failure to better integrate the southern (Malay) provinces -- government jobs go to Thais from other provinces rather than to local Malays -- 'heavy-handed' use of Thai soldiers -- unemployed Malay youths], p.6; (2) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [Malaysian-born airline captain flew out of Singapore after being branded an undesirable immigrant for his role in an airline/union dispute] and [PM Goh Chok Tong tightened rules for government MPs who have private business interests], p. 12; (3) Shawn W. Crispin, "Thailand: gearing up for a fight" (in Pattani) [The killing by security forces of more than 100 lightly armed, suspected Muslim militants could herald a new era of sectarian violence in the south and heighten regional tensions -- Malaysia provides sanctuary to Muslims who fear reprisals by Thai security forces, but not to separatists], pp. 21-22; (4) Chris Prystay, "Sexing up Asia's ads" [Humor often lost among conservative companies and different cultural mores -- Fearing that some marketing executives of a Malaysian unit of GlaxoSmithKline, would reject his idea of an ad to sell pimple ointment in which a man with a stocking face mask enters a store and points to a tube of ointment, and as customers faint at seeing what might be a robbery, throws money at the clerk, takes a tube of ointment and flees... paid for filming it out of his own pocket instead of following the usual procedures... shown the film the executives loved it... it won a gold medal at a regional industry awards event... but even multinational companies 'play it safe' in advertizing], pp. 34-36; (5) Sathia Varqa, "Travellers' tales: long drink" [When buying coffee in Malaysia, the fewer items that come with your drink, the longer its title: (a) coffee w/ sugar & milk = kopi, (b) coffee w/ sugar but no milk = kopi-o, (c) coffee with no sugar & no milk = kopi-o-kosong, (d) coffee with no sugar & no milk & no glass (no glass but a paper cup to take it away) = kopi-o-kosong tahpau], p.54.

May/20/04 (1) Nury Vittachi, "Travellers tales: why losers get my vote" [A Malaysian Chinese voter left the ballot blank except for writing the word 'snake' next to one candidate's name -- The insulted candidate argued that the law only required that the voter make "a mark" (any mark) next to the name of the selected candidate, and claimed the vote -- ballot scrutinizers noted that this interpretation opposed the voter's intent -- An hour of debate persuaded the candidate that the vote should be declared a spoiled ballot... like the 'hanging chads' in Florida], p. 55.

May/27/04 -- (1) Francis Chong (Press Sec. to Deputy P.M. Lee Hsien Loong, Singapore), "Singapore replies" [Dan Fineman, May 6, alleges huge hidden fiscal surpluses enrich the state but impoverish the private sector, and claims Singapore taxes heavily and spends little -- But Singapore simply follows international standards -- The article claimed overly stringent fiscal policies sap Singapore's competitiveness... why should this make companies less competitive? -- These and other inaccuracies raise the question of the periodical wanting to shake confidence in Singapore's government and system], p. 3; (2) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [Singapore's export-driven economy will weather higher interest rates and rising oil prices and grow by as much as 7.5% this year according to the Ministry of Trade & Industry], p.10; (3) Chris Prystay, "Redevelopment: resorting to a make-over" [An unlikely Singapore beach location, Sentosa Island, is getting a make-over by one of Singapore's biggest hotel developers -- Will build an exclusive tropical resort], pp. 36-37; (4) Tom McCawley, "Security: sea of trouble" [The International Maritime Bureau lists the most piracy-prone areas in Southeast Asian waters, the Straits of Melaka the largest -- Pirate syndicates hire desperate out-of-work fishermen who do their bidding], pp. 50-51; (5) S. Jayasankaran, "Malaysia: justice for all?" [A mother's legal battle highlights the problems facing non-Muslims in the Islamic legal system -- The case of two Hindus who marry and the husband later converts to Islam and also converts their two children without telling their mother -- The mother turned to the courts to have the children's conversions declare illegal -- The High Court referred the case to the Sharia Court, where the mother, as a non-muslim, has no legal standing -- Desperate, the wife left the country with her two children and 'disappeared' -- Brief mentions of several other cases and political implications], p. 53; (6) Lim Li Min, "Film: Singapore split" [Contradictions abound in the Lion City's approach to art and politics, as evident at this year's film festival], pp. 54-55.

Jun/03/04 -- (1) "Intelligence: the cost of peace in Thailand" [Wan Kadir Che Man, self acclaimed leader of Bersatu, a Malay Islamic insurgent group in southern Thailand, sets the price of peace as political appointments for him and his colleagues], p. 11; (2) Michael Vatikiotis & S. Jayasankaran, "Malaysia: softly, softly go reforms" [It was hard enough for Abdullah to replace a legend last year, but now the soft-spoken prime minister needs to overhaul Mahathir's policies], pp. 20-23; (3) Michael Vatikiotis, "Malaysia: torture claim" [A U.S. rights group, Human Rights Watch, says that suspected Islamic militants are being regularly abused in Malaysian prison, and that U.S. Guantanamo Bay prison gives fodder for abuse by other governments], p. 24; (4) Michael J. Montesano, "The 5th column: Pattani and the premier league" [The terms of integration of the (Malay and Thai Muslim) south must reflect new developments, whose origins may lie as far outside Thailand's borders as do English soccer pitches] -- Thailand need not abandon its efforts to integrate the Muslim south, but the terms of integration need to reflect new developments -- Old solutions will not work in southern Thailand], p. 27; (5) Phillip Day, "Singapore: the lion roars" [Thanks to strong exports and to a lesser extent domestic demand, Singapore's economy is back on track], p. 50; (6) Nury Vittachi, "Travellers' tales: gone to ground" [Singapore women collected 15 years of insurance for death of husband, but also remarried him and conceived a baby with him -- Scam discovered when brother hired a lawyer to get more money from the insurance firms], p.56.

Jun/10/04 -- (1) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [PAP endorsed Lee Hsien Loong to become Singapore's next PM], pp. 10-11; (2) Leslie Lopez, "Regional briefing: delayed detention" [U.S. welcomes Malaysia's arrest of Sri Lankan allegedly at center of international nuclear smuggling ring], p. 11; Leslie Lopez, "Malaysia: water for sale" [To improve water management, a minister wants to put the state's problems into private hands], p.16.

Jun/17/04 -- (1) Carool Kersten, "Letters: for now, utopian" [Critiques Michael Montesano's June 3rd analysis of Thailand's problems in the Muslim south -- While broad segments of Thai society have become more open to ethnic pluralism, the Bangkok government maintains an ultra-nationalist stance], p. 4; (2) "Editorials: chasing pirates" [The Five-Power Defense Arrangements grouping is unlikely to be a proper platform for fighting terrorism in the Strait of Malacca], p.8; (3) "Intelligence: U.S.-Singapore defence ties revisited" [Singapore and the U.S. held talks in early June on security and defense ties -- New strategic framework agreement to be completed by year's end], pp.10&13; (4) Murray Hiebert & Barry Wain, "Diplomacy: same planet, different world" [As Rumsfeld urged Asian allies to get tougher on terrorists, Asia complained that he didn't appreciate growing resentment against the U.S. -- Singapore PM Goh Chok Tong was first to warn Rumsfeld about rising anti-U.S. sentiment, and later Malaysia PM Abdullah Ahmad Badawi went further, blaming the U.S. stance on the Palestine/Israel problem], pp. 26-27.

Jul/01/04 -- (1) Michael Haas, "Letters: unhelpful scolding" [Instead of scolding the parties of the 5-power defense arrangements, which have done some good, FEER should cover the Tripartite Council (Indonesia, Malaysia, Singapore)], p. 3; (2) Leslie Lopez, "Malaysia: a bit stretched" [After years of spending on physical infrastructure, the government is having trouble settling its bills], p. 52.

Jul/08/04 -- (1) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [Three top casino companies have expressed interest in Singapore's proposal to build a casino], p.13.

Jul/15/04 -- (1) "Editorials: hazy" [Indonesian and Malaysian government reactions to air-pollution], p. 8; (2) "Intelligence: the long race to replace Kofi Annan" [Malaysia and Singapore have each signaled that they have their own candidates in mind], p. 11; (3) "Regional briefing: Singapore", [Swiss drug giant Novartis opened a $122 million not-for-profit tropical disease center on July 5], p. 12; (4) "Regional briefing: Malaysia" [Petronas, the state-owned oil company, reported a 57% increase in full-year earnings in the fiscal year ended March 31], p. 13; (5) John McBeth & Donald Greenlees, "Terrorism: key arrests" [Indonesian police arrested six alleged terrorists, but others got away -- Mustaqim, a militant who helped form the core of the terrorist group Jemaah Islamiah's Mantiqi III sub-group operating in the Philippines, Sabah and Sulawesi was among those detained], p.20; (6) Cris Prystay, "Singapore: costly school expansion" [A school is embroiled in a row between the board, parents and teachers which some say could cast a shadow over Singapore's efforts to position itself as an international education hub], pp.24-25; (7) Ifzal Ali, "Asia's employment challenge" [In Malaysia and other Southeast Asian countries, labor-force growth is projected at over 2% a year between 2000 and 2010, but employment growth not keeping up with population growth], p.26; (8) S. Jayasankaran, "Car makers: Proton on a slippery slope" [Malaysia's state-owned car maker has seen a steady erosion of market share as foreign competitors slash prices -- Now it has been given a reprieve in the form of three additional years of protection], pp. 54-56; (9) Salil Tripathi, "Open-and-shut case? Not quite" [Does economic liberalization lead to political openness? -- A new book ("Transparency and Authoritarian Rule in Southeast Asia: Singapore and Malaysia" by Garry Rodan published by RoutledgeCurzon) finds little evidence of this in Singapore and Malaysia], pp. 68-69.

Jul/22/04 -- (1) Amitabha Guha, "Letters: a better way" [Argues that the multiplier effect from the removal of car tariffs/excise duties by the Malaysian government would be much greater than that generated by removing fuel subsidies], p. 3; (2) "Regional briefing: Malaysia" [Kuala Lumpur says that it will expel more than 1 million illegal migrant workers, a move similar to two years ago which produced a severe labor shortage], p.15; (3) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [The economy grew at its fastest rate since 1996 -- The high rate boosted by last year's slowdown in which the GDP fell 3.9% in the last quarter], p. 15; (4) S. Jayasankaran, "UMNO challenge" [Unlikely that PM Abdullah Ahmad Badawi will be challenged for the presidency of UMNO; but the appearance of a rival candidate, Tengku Razaleigh Hamzah (former finance minister), suggests that Abdullah's leadership is not universal among Malays], p. 15; (5) S. Jayasankaran, "Diplomacy: a new realism" [Malaysia reverses its decades-long policy of shunning ties with Australia and New Zealand -- A July 20 Malaysian trade and investment mission to Australia hopes to cash in on PM Abdullah's fresh goodwill and erase years of prickly relations between Canberra and KL -- In April ASEAN invited both Australia and New Zealand to start talks to create a free-trade area], p. 54.

Jul/29/04 -- (1) "Regional briefing: Malaysia says it will go to Iraq" [Malaysia, has agreed to send a 'sizeable medical team' to Iraq and may also help in reconstruction efforts, announced after the 20 July meeting between PM Abdullah and President Bush -- Seen as a move to mend recent disagreements], p. 12; (2) "Regional briefing: Singapore" [Singapore plans to build Asia's first terminal dedicated to low-cost airlines -- Expected to open within four years], p. 12; (3) "Regional briefing: Brunei" [Sultan announces reinstatement of Brunei's legislative body, suspended 20 years ago -- Members to be appointed rather than elected -- And right of the sultan's family to rule by decree will remain intact], pp. 12-13; (4) "Regional briefing: Malaysia" [Lawyers for former Deputy PM Anwar Ibrahim claim Anwar could face paralysis is not allowed to go abroad (Germany) for back surgery -- Government offered prompt surgery in KL -- Malaysian Federal Court delays decision on Anwar's final appeal against sodomy charge], p. 13; (5) Barry Wain, "Exit Goh, enter Lee" [In final move succession plan, Singapore announced that Lee Hsien Loong will replace Goh Chok Tong as PM on August 12 -- Observers interested in whether or not Lee maintains practice of having two deputy premiers], p. 13.

Gazette: The International Journal for Communication Studies

V.66,n.1 – Feb 2004 – (1) Kokkeong Wong, "Asian-based development journalism and political elections: press coverage of the 1999 general elections in Malaysia" [Examines the legitimacy of Asian-based development journalism by examining coverage of the 1999 elections by 3 major national newspapers – Conclusion: "coverage needs greater breadth and depth"], pp. 25-40.

Global Change, Peace & Security

V.16,n.2 -- Jun 2004 -- (1) Judith Nagata, "Alternative models of Islamic governance in Southeast Asia: Neo-Sufism and the Arqam experiment in Malaysia" [Focuses on the origins and spread of one Malay Islamic non-violent ideological confrontation movement, Al Arqam -- Its experiments with schools, clinics, farms and factories -- How it became a de facto political movement and was banned and came to be considered a 'heresy'], pp. 99-114; (2) Jan Stark, "Contesting models of Islamic governance in Malaysia and Indonesia" [Discusses a gradual transformation of the Wahhabi-inspired dakwah-Islam of the 1970s into new discourses of Islamic civil society undertaken by the emerging middle classes of both countries], pp. 115-131; (3) Maznah Mohamad, "Women's engagement with political Islam in Malaysia" [Examines the engagement of Muslim women's groups with political Islam in Malaysia -- Argues that while political Islam has been seen as inimical to women's status and interest, its effect has been softened by such engagement -- Such engagement has also blunted Malay-Muslim political dominance by weakening the myth of Malay consensus in the multi-ethnic political system], pp. 133-149; (4) Chaiwat Satha-Anand, "Praying in the rain: the politics of engaged Muslims in anti-war protest in Thai society" [Examines the anti-war protest of March 26, 2003 against the U.S.-Iraq war by Muslims in southern Thailand -- How the Muslim minority in Thailand engage other Thai citizens (mostly Buddhists) while preserving their identity as Muslims], pp. 151-167; (5) Ahmad Fauzi Abdul Hamid, "Islam, Weberism and economic development: an adjunct to Nagata's outline of the Arqam experiment in Malaysia (1968-1994)" [Questions the theoretical analysis of the relationship between religion and modernization, as deriving from Weberism], pp. 169-179.

International Migration

V.42,n.1 -- 2004 -- (1) Prem Kumar Rajaram & Carl Grundy-Warr, "The irregular migrant as Homo sacer: migration and detention in Australia, Malaysia, and Thailand" [From the abstract -- Looks at aspects of the detention of irregular migrants in Australia, Malaysia, and Thailand -- The question of how notions of political participation and of sovereignty are affected by the detention of certain sorts of individuals], pp. 33-63 (Abstracts in French and Spanish on p. 64).

Journal of Multilingual & Multicultural Development

Vol 24: 3, 2003 -- (1) Su-Hie Ting "Impact of language planning on language attitudes: a case study of Sarawak" [Examines the impact of language planning on language attitudes in Sarawak, where there is strong resistance to replacing English with the national language (bahasa Malaysia) -- 142 returned questionnaires, plus interviews and observations -- Participants keen to be proficient in both languages], pp. 195-210; (2) Lionel Wee, "Linguistic instrumentalism in Singapore" [Explores a move by the Singapore government toward a more pragmatic view of language, seen in government's attempt to assert the economic value of local languages, officially known as 'mother tongues' -- Previously seen primarily as repositories of cultural values; whereas English seen as a domain of economic and technological matters], pp. 211-224.

Malaysian Business

Jan 1st-15th -- 2004 -- (1) A. Kadir Jasin, "Other thots: the danger of overstaying in politics" [As the general election becomes more imminent, it is time for the ruling coalition to take stock of the situation and the needful"], pp. 5-7; (2) Manik Mehta, "Malaysia and the Bollywood factor" ["As Bollywood get more popular in Malaysia, relations between the 2 countries continue to grow in tandem"], pp. 18-19.

Jan 16th-31st -- 2004 -- (1) A. Kadir Jasin, "Other thots: building an effective team" [The appointment of Datuk Seri Najib Tun Razak as DPM: an effort to build an effective team], p. 7.

Feb 1st-15th -- 2004 -- (1) A. Kadir Jasin, "Other thots: regarding national cars and Bumiputras" [Charity begins at home, therefore, from Proton and Perodua to the double-tracking project to the Bumiputera agenda, shouldn't we be more nurturing and understanding], pp. 5-7; Charles Raj, "Commentary: what's the delay?" [The idea of a national health financing scheme has been discussed for years... the country waits], p.8.

Sojourn: Journal of Social Issues in Southeast Asia

V.19,n.1 -- Apr 2004 -- (1) Selvaraj Velayutham, "Affect, materiality, and the gift of social life in Singapore" [From the abstract -- Research data from an internet forum, e-mail survey, and newspaper report relating to the question of national identity & belonging in Singapore -- How Singaporeans relate to kinds of discourses on national identity presented by government and how they articulate their belonging to the Singapore nation -- Argues that government's concentration on economic development and survivalism has created an 'ambivalent and tenuous relationship' between the individual and the nation-state], pp. 1-27; (2) Jan Stark, "Constructing an Islamic model in two Malaysian states: PAS rule in Kelantan and Tregganu" [From the abstract -- Deals with various meanings of models of Islamic governance introduced by PAS -- Shows how Islamic discourses of modernism and traditionalism have been interwoven, acquiring new ambiguous and shifting meanings ... Shia-style state, Islamic democracy, Islamist basics], pp. 51-75; (3) Alexander Horstmann, "Ethnohistorical perspectives on Buddhist-Muslim relations and coexistence in southern Thailand: from shared cosmos to the emergence of hatred?" [From the abstract -- A review article based on ethnological literature about Muslim-Buddhist relations in the period 1969-2002 in the area straddling southern Thailand and peninsular Malaysia -- The transformation of Muslim-Buddhist relations from shared cosmos to the mobilization of hatred -- The transition from the positive local institutions of co-existence & reciprocity to their collapse by extra-local factors, the state and globalization], pp.76-99.

The Chronicle of Higher Education (On line at <http://chronicle.com/email> )

May/19/04 -- (1) Martha Ann Overland, "Thailand plans to open new university in hopes of stemming Islamic militancy" [Thailand to open a new university for the southern provinces of Narathiwat, Pattani and Yala (a Malay kingdom until the beginning of the 20th century) next year to help stem a growing Islamic separatist movement -- The government is concerned that foreign Islamic educational institutions in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Egypt, where many residents of southern Thailand go for formal religious-based education on full scholarships, pose a threat to Thai national security -- The new university would be built around four existing technical colleges in Narathiwat province and would open next year, and another for Yala province is planned -- (Editor's note: Thanks to Kent Mulliner at Ohio University for finding and sending this item to Berita. Also, there is a well-developed Islamic Studies College at the Pattani campus of Prince of Songkla University; so that the new university in Narathiwat and the one planned for Yala represent additions rather than first attempts to use higher Islamic education to solve Islamic separatism in the southern provinces).]

The Economist

May 8th-14th--2004 -- (1) "The car industry: Proton bomb" [Malaysia's creaky national car company faces an uncertain future -- Former PM Mahathir returns to Proton and several board members threatened to resign -- Present PM Abdullah Badawi called an emergency board meeting on 17 April -- Problems in the boardroom reflect problems on the ground -- Last year Proton's domestic market share plunged from 49% to 38% as sales fell 28% to 155,000 cars, and net profit are expected to plunge to half those of last year], p. 61.

May 22nd-28th -- 2004 -- (1) "The Spratly Islands: small is beautiful and valuable, for six suitors" [In the Spratly Islands, tourism is war by other means -- In March, Taiwan built a bird-watching hide on a tiny island previously visited by soldiers -- In response, Vietnam dispatched a boat-load of tourists through the archipelago -- Malaysia provides unprovoked bouts of marine research in the area -- China and the Philippines are quietly fuming -- All five nations maintain a presence in the archipelago, but the sixth claimant, Brunei, is much less active], p.40.

May 29th- Jun 4th -- 2004

(1) "South-East Asia's economies: no China syndrome" [China's growth may slow, but that need not be bad news for Southeast Asia -- The Singapore economy grew by 7.5% and Malaysia's by 7.6% -- Of the big economies in the region, only Malaysia and Vietnam are net exporters -- "A mysterious insurgency in the Muslim-majority areas in the south (of Thailand) has spooked investors"], p. 44.

Jun 5th -11th -- 2004 --(1)"Thailand: Thaksin in trouble?"

[Still popular, but problems increasing as an election nears, especially the continuing violence in the Muslim/Malay areas of southern Thailand], p.39.

Jun 12th-18th -- 2004 -- (1) "Shipping in South-East Asia: going for the jugular" [The Strait of Malacca, through which a quarter of the world's maritime trade passes, makes a tempting target for terrorists and pirates -- At a regional security meeting in Singapore last week, Singapore deputy prime minister Tony Tan pointed out that a ship sunk in the right spot, where the strait's sea lane is only 25 meters deep, would cripple world trade -- Still, not much evidence of terrorist interest in such a plot, in spite of (or maybe because of) a lot of piracy in the strait -- Malaysia and Indonesia have already rejected the idea of American patrols], pp. 37-38

Jul 24th-30th -- 2004 -- (1) "Singapore: the son rises" [Strange how the new Mr. Lee looks remarkably like the old one], pp. 39-40.

Jul 31st-Aug 6th -- 2004 -- (1) "Asian equities: falling out of love" [Western investors once again retreating from Asian shares -- Thailand has fallen out of favor; but Malaysia and Singapore, being less exposed to China, have done better], pp. 62-63.

The Journal of the Siam Society

V.90, Pts 1&2 -- 2002 -- (1) Peter Borschberg, "The seizure of the Santo Antonio at Patani. VOC Freebooting, the Estado da India and Peninsular Politics, 1602-1609." [A historical account of part of the projection of conflict between the Dutch and the Spanish & Portuguese in the early 17th century from the European to the Asian setting, focusing on the Dutch seizure of the Portuguese carrack San Antonio in 1605 on the invitation of Raja Hijau of the Malay kingdom of Patani], pp. 59-72.

The Pacific Review

V.17, n.2 -- 2004 -- (1) David Camroux & Nuria Okfen, "9/11 and US-Asian relations: towards a new 'New World Order'?" [An introduction to this topic to which this issue of the journal is devoted -- All generally relevant to M/S/B, but the following two probably most specifically relevant], pp.163-177; (2) Suzaina Kadir, "Mapping Muslim politics in Southeast Asia after September 11" [Looks at the trajectory of Muslim politics in Southeast Asia after 9/11 -- Argues that Muslim politics in Southeast Asia have become much more complex than before], pp. 200-222; (3) David Capie, "Between a hegemon and a hard place: the 'war on terror' and Southeast Asian-US relations" [Considers ties between 3 ASEAN members (Indonesia, Malaysia, The Philippines) and Washington], pp. 223-248.

Books Books books books (Relevant to M/S/B)

*Berger, Mark T.

2004 The Battle for Asia: From decolonization to globalization. London & New York: RoutledgeCurzon. xii, 343 pp. Pb. ISBN 0-415-32529-3. Hb. ISBN 0-415-

32528-5. [No single chapters devoted exclusively to M/S/B; but fairly substantial sections of chapters devoted to M/S/B -- (From the back cover) theories of development, decolonization and the nation-state system, geo-politics and nation-building, US political and economic intervention, the effects of communism, the end of the Cold War, discussion of specific national trajectories in the context of regional and international history, the rise of neo-liberalism, the dynamics of the 'Asian Miracle', the Asian crisis and after, Asia in the era of globalization.]

*Bishop, Ryan & John Phillips & Yeo Wei Wei (eds.) 2003. Postcolonial Urbanism: Southeast Asian Cities and Global Processes. New York: Routledge Curzon. 336 pp. Pb. 0-415-93250-5. [Contributors focus on heavily urbanized regions of Southeast Asia to investigate novel forms of urbanism in Singapore and other S.E. Asian countries.]

*Bishop, Ryan & John Phillips & Wei-Wei Yeo (eds.) 2004. Beyond Description: Space Historicity Singapore. New York: Routledge Curzon. 288 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-29981-0. [Addresses space, historicity, architecture and textuality, focusing on Singapore as a global city and it's singular position in the region.]

*Bunnell, Tim

2004 Malaysia, Modernity and the Multimedia Corridor: Critical Geography of Intelligent Landscapes. New York: Routledge Curzon. 208 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-25634-8. [A data grounded analysis of the construction of the high-tech urban region in Malaysia, examining the Multi-media Super Corridor as part of a state vision of modern Malaysia and as space for hegemonic conceptions of Malaysian modernity.]

*Chio, Vanessa C.M.

2004 (forthcoming) Malaysia and the Development Process: Globalization, knowledge Transfers and Postcolonial Dilemmas. Routledge-Curzon Studies in International Relations. New York: Routledge-Curzon. 256 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-94941-6. [Explores international knowledge transfers within the context of globalization, drawing on deconstructions in anthropology, post-colonial studies and critical sociology.]

*Daniels, Timothy P.

2004 (forthcoming) Building Cultural Nationalism in Malaysia: Identity, Representation and Citizenship. New York: Routledge Curzon. 272 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-94971-8. [Examines processes of cultural citizenship in peninsular Malaysia, focusing on diverse residents of Melaka and their negotiations of belonging and incorporation in Malaysian society.]

*Forrest, Ray & James Lee

2003 Housing and Social Change: East-West Perspectives. London & New York: Routledge. xii, 277 pp. Pb. ISBN 0-415-27332-3. [(1) Ch. 2, James Lee, Ray Forest & Wai Keung Tam, "Home-ownership in East and South East Asia: market, state and institutions" [Singapore one of the cases along with

Hong Kong, Taiwan, South Korea and Thailand]; (2) Ch. 4, Chua Beng Huat, "Housing provision and management of aspirations" [Draws out the social, political and economic effects of the universal provision of housing by the PAP]; (3) [Bye-the-bye mentions of Singapore in some of the other 12 chapters.]

*Gilquin, Michel

2002 Les Musulmans de Thaïlande. Paris/Bangkok: L'Harmattan/IRASEC. [From the review by Carol Kersten in The Journal of the Siam Society V.90, Pts 1&2, 2002, pp. 184-188 -- Perhaps the first general survey of Thai Muslims in French, by an author of two books about Malaysia -- Three sections: 1) an overview of the historical and demographic dimensions; 2) "The Greater South"; and 3) the problem of Muslim identity regarding the contemporary issues such as democratization, economic development and globalization.]

*Gomez, Terrence (ed.)

2004 (forthcoming) The State of Malaysia: Ethnicity, Equity and Reform. Routledge-Curzon Malaysian Studies Series. New York: Routledge-Curzon. 240 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-33357-1. [An overview of the current state of Malaysia: political developments, governance & the impact of ethnicity, patronage & the reform movement.]

*Hack, Karl & Kevin Blackburn

2003 Did Singapore Have to Fall: Churchill and the Impregnable Fortress. New York: Routledge Curzon. 320pp. Hb ISBN 0-415-30803-8. [A sophisticated summary of up-to-date knowledge about the fall of Singapore, including critical tensions between Churchill and local commanders.]

*Havers, R.P.W.

2003 Reassessing the Japanese Prisoner of War Experience: The Changai P.O.W. Camp, Singapore, 1942-45. New York: Routledge Curzon. 256 pp. Hb ISBN 0-7007-1657-2. [Explores the history of Changi Prisoner of War Camp from the 1942 surrender to liberation by British forces in 1945, discussing forms of POW resistance to the Japanese.]

*Kau, Ah Keng, Jung Kwon, Tambya Sioh Kuan & Tan Soo Jiuan

2004 Understanding Singaporeans: Values, Lifestyle, Aspiration and Consumption Behaviors. River Edge, N.J. & London: World Scientific Publishing Co. Ltd. xiv, 247 pp. Hb. ISBN 981-238-730-7. [Chapters: 1) Introduction & research methodology; 2) Value orientations; 3) Personal values & life aspirations; 4) life satisfactions; 5) Media habits; 6) Leisure activities; 7) Internet usage & behavior; 8) Clustering of Singaporeans; 9) Successful aging in Singapore; 10) Young adult Singaporeans; 11) Conclusions; References; Index – From the back cover: Details findings of a large scale survey on values and lifestyles of 1500 Singapore residents.]

*Khoo, Boo Teik

2003 1955 – Beyond Mahathir: Malaysian politics and its discontents. Zed Books Ltd, UK/Palgrave Macmillan. 1842774654. R6-436132. [From SEA Cntr, U. Washington list of books ordered for UW Libraries, May-June 2004]

*Knight, John

2003 Wildlife in Asia: Cultural Perspectives. New York: Routledge Curzon. 320pp. Hb ISBN 0-7007-1332-8. [Examines human-wildlife relations in East and Southeast Asian countries, including Malaysia, using historical & anthropological data.]

*Lai Ah Eng (ed.)

2004 Beyond rituals and riots: ethnic pluralism and social cohesion in Singapore. Eastern Universities Press, SI/Marshall Cavendish Intl. SI//ISBS. 981210728. R8-442513. [From SEA Cntr, U. Washington list of books ordered for UW Libraries, May-June 2004]

*Leigh, Michael

2002 Mapping the Peoples of Sarawak. Kuching: Institute of East Asian Studies, Universiti Malaysia Sarawak. 123 pp. [Reviewed by William H. Frederick in Asian Studies Review 28.1, Mar 2004. ]

*Millard, Mike

2004 1947 – Jihad in paradise: Islam and politics in Southeast Asia. Foreword by Ivan Hall. East Gate Books/M.E. Sharpe. 0765613352. R1-435025. [From SEA Cntr, U. Washington list of books ordered for UW Libraries, May-June 2004]

*Nesadurai, Helen E.S.

2003 Globalisation, Domestic Politics and Regionalism: The ASEAN Free Trade Area. London & New York: Routledge. xiv, 226 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-30800-3. [From back cover -- Argues that AFTA encompasses the features of both open and developmental regionalism due to the political significance of foreign and domestic capital, illustrating the more general point that the domestic political economy, which mediates between globalisation and regionalism, can be used to explain the evolution of AFTA between 1991 and 2002 -- No particular M/S/B chapters, but much of the content on Malaysia and Singapore.]

*Peerenboom, Randall (ed.)

2003 Asian Discourses of Rule of Law. London & New York: RoutledgeCurzon. 512 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-32613-3. Pb. ISBN 0-415-32612-5. [See especially, Ch. 6, Li-ann Thio, "Rule of law within a nonliberal 'communitarian' democracy: the Singapore experience" & Ch. 7, H.P. Lee, "Competing conceptions of rule of law in Malaysia".]

*Piper, Nicola & AndersUhlén (eds.)

2004 Transnational Activism in Asia: Problems of power and democracy. Routledge Studies in Transnationalism, Series editor: Steven Vertovec.

London & New York: Routledge. xvii, 194 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-415-31513-1. [ See especially, (1) Ch. 7 by Johan Lindquist, "Putting transnational activism in its place: HIV/AIDS in the Indonesia-Malaysia-Singapore growth triangle and beyond", pp. 109-128 -- Focuses mostly on the relationship between Singapore and Batam islands, both with highly mobile populations in a region where there are national NGO's dealing with AIDS, but little communication or cooperation between them even though the three-country region is said by some to be a "borderless world" and (2) Ch. 8 by Meredith Weiss, "Transnational activism by Malaysians: foci, tradeoffs and implications", pp. 129-148 -- Explores what the Malaysians' transnational endeavors are, and why Malaysian activists pursue these campaigns, and the implications of their efforts to liberalize Malaysia and the region.]

*Rafferty, John & Y.H. Chiang & Michael Anson

2004 (forthcoming) The Construction Sector in the Asian Economies. New York: Routledge Curzon. 312 pp. Hb. 0-415-28613-1. [Comprehensive data on the Asian construction sectors of 9 Asian countries, including Malaysia.]

*Rao, Madanmohan (ed.)

2003 News media and new media: The Asia-Pacific Internet Handbook, episode v. Singapore: Times Media Ltd. Eastern Universities Press. xv, 549 pp. Pb. ISBN 981-210-232-9. [(1) Part I (Intro & chs. 1-12) deals with themes, regional issues and some case studies, pp. 1-239; (2) Part II (chs. 13-25) consists of country profiles... those directly relevant to M/S/B are: (a) Ch. 14, "Brunei Darussalam" and (b) Ch. 23, "Singapore", pp. 243-408; (3) Part III, pp. 409-537 is devoted to book reviews. -- See especially, review of Eddie Kuo, Alfred Choi, Arun Mahizhan, Lee Wai Peng, Christine Soh, 2002, Internet in Singapore: A Study of Usage and Impact. Singapore: Times Academic Press. 122pp.]

*Shiitonen, Leena (ed.)

2003 Women's Issues at IFLA: Equality, Gender and Information on Agenda / Papers from the Programs of the Round Table on Women's Issues at IFLA Annual Conferences 1993-2002. Munchen: International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions. xii, 244 pp. Hb. ISBN 3-598-21836-2. [See especially, Sarla R. Murgai, "Motivation to manage: a comparative study of male and female library and information science students in the United States of America, India, Singapore, and Japan", pp. 62-86.]

*Spring, Joel H.

2004 How educational ideologies are shaping global society; intergovernmental organizations, NGOs, and the decline of the nation-state. Mahwah, New Jersey: Lawrence Erlbaum Associates, Inc., Publishers. x, 215 pp. Hb. ISBN 0-8058-4915-7. Pb.

ISBN 0-8058-4916-5. [See especially pp. 11-27 in Ch. 1, "Nationalist education in the age of globalization: global workers carrying their nations in their hearts" which focuses on Singapore.]

*Vinding, Diana (ed.)

2004 The Indigenous World 2004. Copenhagen: International Work Group for Indigenous Affairs. 472 pp. Pb. ISBN 87-90730-83-6. [See especially Jannie Lasimbang, "Malaysia", pp. 244-247, in the section on "East Asia and Southeast Asia", pp. 212-288.]

*Wan, Henry Y., Jr.

2004 Economic Development in a Globalized Environment: East Asian Evidences. The Netherlands: Kluwer Academic Publishers. xix, 392 pp. Hb. ISBN 1-4020-7618-5. [From the back cover -- This book affirms that the East Asian growth record is replicable today -- Places the common East Asian theme in the theoretic context of product cycles, globalization and convergence and the historical perspective of the 'German Miracle' after WW II as well as more recent Irish growth, identifying the effective policies for sustained and rapid growth by structured comparison of different economies -- See especially, Ch. 10, Singapore; and Ch. 11, which has a 12 page section devoted to Malaysia.]

*White, Nicholas J.

2004 (forthcoming) British Business and Post-Colonial Malaysia, 1957-70: Neo-colonialism or Disengagement? New York: Routledge Curzon. 304 pp. Hb. 0-415-32320-1. [Explores the limits of the idea that in the period immediately following independence Malaysia experienced only pseudo-independence because of the dominance of British business interests.]

Wong, Tai-Chee

2004 Four decades of transformation: land use in Singapore, 1960-2000. Eastern Universities Press Marshall Cavendish Intl. SI/ISBS. 9812102701. R3-443317. [From SEA Cntr, U. Washington list of books ordered for UW Libraries, May-June 2004]

Amnesty International

(Abstracted from information provided by Margaret John, Coordinator for Singapore & Malaysia, Amnesty International Canada)

From the Straits Times 6 July, 2004. Senior Minister Lee drops defamation suit against ailing Devan Nair, because the ex-president, now living in Canada has early stages of dementia, and is unable to testify. A Canadian newspaper, The Globe and Mail, a defendant in the suit as a result of publishing an article titled 'Singapore sage', first reported the dementia. In the article, Mr. Nair alleged that Mr. Lee had gone on a character demolition campaign when Mr. Nair had resigned as president in 1985 because of Alcoholism, a condition he denied. Moreover, he suspected that Mr. Lee had instructed government doctors to slip Mr. Nair hallucinatory drugs to make him appear befuddled... an accusation he has recently withdrawn. Mr. Lee filed a lawsuit in 1999 against Mr. Nair and The Globe and Mail, for S$520,000 in penalties, damages and costs. Mr. Nair counter-sued in 2001, standing by earlier statements and claiming damages plus costs. He also alleged that under Mr. Lee's leadership, the Singapore government had a history of using legal action to silence political opponents. Then Mr. Lee moved to strike the counter suit, saying it was a scandalous and inflammatory attack on the integrity of the Singapore government. But the Ontario Superior Court dismissed his motion in January 2002. Since then, there has been no word of the pending libel suit until the recent story in the The Globe and Mail. On 5 July 2004, the newspaper confirmed that Mr. Lee discontinued the suit without costs.

Call for Papers/Conferences

-- Oct 1-3 2004. The Midwest Conference on Asian Affairs: University of Minnesota. For the details, visit: <http://www.hist.umn.edu/mcaa/>

-- Jan14-16, 2005. The Southeast Conference Association for Asian Studies: University of Kentucky. Lexington, Ky. Submit proposals for panels and papers by October 1, 2004. For details contact, Dr. Paige Johnson Tan, e-mail tanp@uncw.edu.

-- Jan27-30, 2005. International Conference on Cultural & Religious Mosaic of South and Southeast Asia: Conflict and Consensus through the Ages. New Delhi, An SSEASR conference sponsored by the IAHR, a Unesco affiliate. A call for papers on any subject within the scope of the conference. Details: at www.sseasr.org & www.icvsolutions.com/iahr. (Info from: Amarjiva Lochan, Dr Convenor, SSEASR Conference, 2005; Email: secretariat@sseasr.org ).

-- May3-8, 2005. Canadian Anthropology Society / Societe canadienne d'anthropologie (CASCA) 2005 call for papers. Merida, Yucatan, Mexico. Emphasis on new forms of hybridity and intensified exchange between localities, nations and world regions; perceptions of cultures, borders, power and change; new movements for aboriginal rights and other social movements staking claims of place and locality that are conflated with identity and cultural belonging. Abstract submission & deadlines: Sessions & Workshops October 31, 2004; Individual Papers January 31, 2005. E-mail: merida05@fant.uady.mx.

Prospectus

Berita is a quarterly publication of the Malaysia, Singapore, Brunei Studies Group of AAS. It serves as bulletin board, forum and quarterly publication for scholars of all the scholarly disciplines concerned with Malaysia, Singapore and Brunei Studies. It is published four times yearly and distributed to subscribers mid-month in February, May, August and November.

Address all correspondence and submissions for publication to rprovenc@juno.com or to Ron Provencher, P.O. Box 13336, Burton, WA 98013. Submissions for publication of announcements or scholarly contributions should be sent: (1) as an attachment to an e-mail message to the above e-mail address; OR (2) as a double-spaced typed manuscript to the above mailing address. In either case, clearly state your wish to publish the contribution in

Berita. The editor,
Ronald Provencher, Ph.D.

Research & Production Staff

Barbara L. Provencher, M.A.
Haron Omar Abdullah, B.A. w/Distinction

ISSN 0273-4311

ISSN 0273-4311

Special thanks to the Suzzallo/Allen Libraries and Staff at the University of Washington, Seattle, Washington.